Historical Dictionary of the War of 1812 Oct 05 2020 The War of 1812 was an extremely complicated war motivated by British seizures of American vessels and goods, American desire to expand into Canada, and impressment of American sailors into the British Navy. However, these are merely the immediate causes. To fully understand the War of 1812, one must delve deeper into history. This book does just that, as it covers the period leading up to the war (1803-1812) and the events of the war itself (1812-1815) through the use of a dictionary consisting of more than 1,400 cross-referenced entries covering descriptions of engagements, ships, weaponry, the compositions of regiments, significant political and military figures, and a full list of key places, issues and terms. Also included are 21 photographs, 6 maps, a chronology of events, an introductory essay, and a comprehensive bibliography, subdivided by topic and fully annotated.

The Marketing / Accounting Interface Mar 30 2020 When marketing managers and financial managers join forces within any business, the result can often be poor communication on financial criteria and goals. The risk of this situation occurring is inevitably present when those with different professional backgrounds and roles are working in accordance with their own norms. In his seminal 1956 paper on general systems theory, the economist Kenneth Boulding referred to the phenomenon of "specialised ears and generalised deafness", which can be seen to exist when marketing managers are financially illiterate or when financial managers lack the necessary insights to design, implement and operate accounting systems which are useful to marketing managers in carrying out their roles. It is increasingly difficult to attach credence to the idea of marketing managers who lack financial skills, or financial managers who fail to relate to the context in which marketing managers operate. Understanding the marketing/accounting interface is therefore important in generating emergent properties from the interaction of marketers and accountants whereby the whole is greater than the sum of the parts. The chapters in this volume seek to address this challenge. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Marketing Management.

The A to Z of the War of 1812 Sep 04 2020 While some wars are remembered forever, others quickly fade away. The War of 1812 has all but disappeared from American history, which might lead one to erroneously assume that it was not terribly important. Although there was no clear winner, this conflict deeply affected all participants. The Americans were proud that they had taken on one of the world's greatest powers and were not crushed. Britain still managed to hold onto its colonies, strengthening both their loyalty and identity as Canadians. The only real losers were the native peoples, who saw their claims to the land further eroded. The war was far from dull. There was plenty of action on the diplomatic front, as well as stirring encounters on land and at sea, many of which are carefully described in the entries in The A to Z of the War of 1812. Others deal with the more significant political and military figures; ships and weaponry; and the role of the British, Canadians, Native Americans, and the fledgling and not yet convincingly "United" States. The introduction presents an overview of the war, while the chronology outlines significant events. An extensive bibliography provides access for further studies that will be useful to those discovering just how important this war was. -- Back cover.

Controlling instruments in the "INTOP" business game Jul 22 2019 Seminar paper from the year 2013 in the subject Business economics - Controlling, grade: 1,3, University of Münster (Institut für Unternehmensrechnung und -besteuerung), course: INTOP-Seminar, language: English, abstract: Hans B. Thorelli, Robert L. Graves and Lloyd T. Howells, the initial developers of INTOP, put strong emphasis on the "ubiquity of entrepreneurial opportunities and decision situations" that INTOP participants have to cope with. Against this complex background, this paper aims at showing how strategic and operative controlling instruments can be used to structure information and thus to provide support in both strategic and operative decision situations. The underlying understanding of controlling in this paper is based on Robert J. Mockler's concept of management control as "a systematic effort by business management to compare performance to predetermined standards, plans or objectives (...)". According to Mockler, controlling begins with a firm's plans and expectations, which shape its objectives and standards. These objectives and standards are considered as preconditions for performance measurement. Given its aim, this paper is split into two parts. Chapter two deals with the strategic dimension of controlling. In 2.1, the structure of the radio industry is analysed using Porter's five forces. In 2.2, the results of this analysis are used to discuss an INTOP company's strategic alternatives, following the three generic strategies developed by Porter. 2.3 includes an exemplary operationalization of the strategy of cost leadership using Kaplan and Norton's Balanced Scorecard. In chapter three, controlling is seen from its operative perspective. In 3.1, it is shown how a multiple-stage margin accounting system can be used to improve decisions concerning product policy. In 3.2, a break-even analysis is used to determine the right timing for the implementation of a regional sales organisation. In order to provide an in-depth analysis of a specific industry, this paper solely deals with the INTOP radio industry. However, the instruments applied can also be used by firms that are engaged in the vacuum cleaner industry. Since more than one strategy can lay the foundations for success in INTOP, this paper shall not dictate one particular strategy that automatically leads to success. Instead, it provides an overview of alternative strategic approaches each of which can make, if implemented appropriately, INTOP participants succeed. The selection of instruments applied in this paper is not exhaustive. The instruments that are presented were selected because they can be used to handle problems that are of high importance in the specific context of INTOP.
