Informants and Undercover Investigations Aug 20 2019 Informants are an invaluable, often instrumental aspect of criminal investigations, but they do present certain management issues. In the necessarily clandestine world they inhabit, the imposition of institutional control presents unique challenges. Lack of training and communication among law enforcement professionals tend to ensure the same error

College & University Food Service Manual Feb 18 2022 Abstract: The successful college food service director has enthusiasm, empathy, dedication, ethics, quality consciousness, an outgoing personality, leadership ability, food service knowledge, business knowledge, close association with other food service professionals, and awareness of and dedication to good nutrition. A new food service director chronologically prioritizes steps to take to reorganize his operation. The manual presents reorganization steps chronologically to include: 1) developing a master plan; 2) setting up a food purchasing system; 3) establishing budgets and control; 4) building a staff; 5) maintaining food quality; and 6) dealing with residence halls, cash operations, vending, sanitation, safety, catering, special events, and public relations. Appendixes and exhibits provide illustrative, helpful suggestions. A food service director's job can be creative, imaginative, challenging, interesting, and rewarding for the director who is on top of things.

Public Lands Conflict and Resolution Mar 07 2021 The United States Forest Service, perhaps more than any other federal agency, has made great strides during the past two decades revolutionizing its public involvement efforts and reshaping its profile through the hiring of professionals in many disciplinary areas long absent in the agency. In fact, to a large extent, the agency has been doing precisely what everyone has been clamoring for it to do: involving the public more in its decisions; hiring more wildlife biologists, recreation specialists, sociologists, planners, and individuals with "people skills"; and, furthermore, taking a more comprehensive and long-term view in planning the future of the national forests. The result has been significant—in some ways, monumental—changes in the agency and its land management practices. There are provisions for public input in almost all aspects of national forest management today. The professional disciplines represented throughout the agency's ranks are markedly more diverse than they have ever been. Moreover, no stone is left unturned in the agency's current forest-planning effort, undoubtedly the most comprehensive, interdisciplinary planning effort ever undertaken by a resource agency in the United States. Regardless of the dramatic change that has occurred in the U. S. Forest Service since the early 1970s, the agency is still plagued by conflicts arising from dissatisfaction ~th how it is doing business.
